Terms of Reference
Evaluation of Matra (in pre-accession countries:
Western Balkans and Turkey), 2012-2014

1. General

These Terms of Reference (ToR) have been drafted by the Europe Department (DEU) and approved by its director. The Policy and Operations Evaluation Department (IOB) was involved in the drafting process, and the IOB guidelines for evaluation¹ have been followed as closely as possible. These ToR will be definitively adopted on the basis of the implementing organisation's comments after that organisation has been selected.

2. Background and goal

2.1 Background and development of Matra

The general objective of the Matra (Social Transformation) programme when it was launched in November 1993 was essentially to support democratisation in Central and Eastern European countries, following the upheavals that had taken place there at the end of the 1980s.

Since 1993 Matra has evolved from a programme supporting the transition in the former Eastern Bloc countries to a bilateral complement to the European Union's pre-accession policy and Neighbourhood Policy. In 2004-2007, once the Czech Republic, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Slovakia and Slovenia had acceded to the EU in 2004, Matra was phased out for these eight countries. It was also phased out for Bulgaria and Romania in 2007-2011 after they joined the EU in 2007. Over the years Matra came to focus on current and potential candidate countries, the EU's and NATO's new eastern neighbours, and more recently several of the EU's southern neighbours.

In the light of the scarcity of resources, the conclusion was drawn in 2009 that the Matra programme needed a sharper geographical and thematic focus. From that time the revised programme was limited to its original purpose: support for the multiple transitions in countries with EU accession prospects or countries with a Communist past. As a result the EU's southern neighbours were removed from the Matra country list.

Because cutbacks and considerations of efficiency dictated even clearer choices in external policy, it was decided that as from 2012 Matra would only be used for Southeast European pre-accession countries.² At the same time the programme's thematic scope was limited to strengthening the rule of law. The decision was taken to phase Matra out for the Eastern Partnership countries and instead meet the need to strengthen the rule of law in these countries through support from the Human Rights Fund.

The general objective of the Matra programme is currently to contribute to the development of a plural democracy, grounded in the rule of law, with room for dialogue between government and civil society, with a central emphasis on building capacity and strengthening the institutions of civil society and government and on strengthening bilateral relations.³ The programme focuses on helping countries to meet the Copenhagen criteria and to adopt the acquis communautaire.⁴

The Netherlands aims to link Matra projects to the European Commission's Instrument for Pre-Accession Assistance (IPA).⁵ In addition to the Matra programme, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (BZ) also contributes to societal transition through the Human Rights Fund (Turkey is the only Matra country where projects are financed from this fund) and the Stability Fund (which finances projects in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Kosovo and Montenegro). This raises the question of the extent to which Matra complements EU programmes and national programmes.

By contrast with past practice, BZ is solely responsible for Matra management⁶ and Matra costs are paid entirely from the BZ budget.

Despite the programme's narrower geographical focus since 2012, Matra funds are nonetheless spent each year in Eastern Partnership countries, at the explicit request of the House of Representatives.⁷ These funds are spent in part on civil society projects, via Dutch embassies and the Visegrad Fund,⁸ and in part via extra contributions to foundations linked to political parties for projects in Eastern Partnership countries.

In response to the Arab Spring, a separate Matra programme (Matra South) was set up for the EU's southern neighbours and has been in operation since 2012.⁹ By contrast with the Southeast European countries covered by the regular Matra programme, the countries of the Arab region have no accession prospects. The two programmes nonetheless work largely according to the same system. In the rest of these ToR, however, 'Matra' refers only to the programme for pre-accession countries.

2.2 Components of the Matra programme

The current Matra programme has the following components.

1. Matra Cooperation with Pre-accession Countries on the Rule of Law (CoPROL): targeted support for central governments

This component finances partnerships between Dutch government bodies and their counterparts in Matra countries. The partnerships must be aimed at adopting the EU acquis in the area of the rule of law and must complement the activities of the European Commission. They must also raise the Netherlands' profile as regards the recipient governments.¹⁰ They have the following objectives:¹¹

- A. Strengthening capacity: The capacity of one or more governmental or semi-governmental institutions in one of the target countries to adopt and implement the EU acquis must be strengthened by drawing on the capacity of one or more relevant governmental or semi-governmental institutions in the Netherlands.
- B. Strengthening bilateral relations between the Netherlands and the Matra countries: Cooperation between Dutch government institutions and their counterparts in the target countries must not only strengthen bilateral ties but also foster greater understanding of Dutch policy in the target countries.

For the period from 1 January 2013 to 31 December 2015, the Minister of Foreign Affairs made €12 million available for this component of Matra. After two rounds of the tender procedure, six projects have been approved. The projects will continue until 2015, in some cases with an extension through 2016. After the completion of the second round, €1.75 million remained to be awarded for budget year 2014. There seem to be several reasons for this. On the one hand, too few of the projects submitted proved to meet all the requirements set in the assessment framework. On the other hand, there was a lack of enthusiasm among several of the parties concerned to reach agreement with partners in the Matra countries on specific joint projects. This evaluation will provide a good opportunity to examine how this component of Matra is working.

2. Training civil servants and young diplomats from Matra countries

Two components of Matra provide for brief courses to train civil servants in pre-accession countries in subjects that are important for their EU accession.

The Matra Pre-Accession Training programme on the Rule of Law (PATROL) provides training for senior officials from the executive branch and judiciary using Dutch best practices. These courses have been outsourced through a tender procedure to the T.M.C. Asser Institute in conjunction with Ecorys and The Hague Academy for Local Governance. This component covers the period 2012-2015 and has a budget of €3,997,764. PATROL's objectives are:

- A. Strengthening the institutional capacity of government bodies in target countries in the field of the rule of law, thus enhancing their capacity to implement necessary reforms and at the same time helping to embed in society the core European values that underlie such reforms.
- B. Strengthening relations between officials in the different target countries.
- C. Strengthening the ties of officials in the target countries with the Netherlands and increasing their understanding of Dutch policy.¹²

Young diplomats from Matra countries also take brief courses in the Netherlands. For the period 2012-2014, these courses have been outsourced to the Netherlands Institute of International Relations 'Clingendael', with a budget of €544,692. Their objectives are:

- A. Strengthening the participants' ability to contribute to their countries' moving closer to the EU.
- B. Strengthening the Netherlands' bilateral relations with the target countries, by fostering closer ties with the Netherlands on the part of participants and increasing their knowledge and understanding of Dutch policy.

¹² See Activity Appraisal Document on the Matra Pre-Accession Training programme on the Rule of Law (Matra PATROL), activity no. 24679 (in Dutch), p. 1.

- C. Forming a network between participants from the different target countries, thus potentially helping to eventually strengthen relations between them.¹³

3. Supporting and strengthening civil society initiatives ('Matra delegated projects')

This component of the Matra programme focuses on strengthening the rule of law as a crucial element of the Copenhagen criteria, with a special emphasis on the justice system. Implementation is delegated to the Dutch embassies in the target countries, which use the funds to support small-scale activities by local or Dutch organisations. The projects may also consist of cooperation between government authorities, including knowledge exchange between line ministries. They should be exclusively focused on one or more of the following themes: legislation and justice, public administration/public order/police, or human rights/minorities. The projects may last for no more than two years. In 2012 €8.3 million was reserved for Matra delegated projects, of which €8.2 million was actually spent; in 2013 these figures were €6.05 million and €6.01 million respectively. For 2014 €5.6 million has been budgeted.

The objectives of this specific Matra programme component are the general Matra objectives mentioned above: building capacity, strengthening the institutions of civil society and government and strengthening bilateral relations.¹⁴

4. Support for political party development

The Matra Political Parties Programme (MPPP) is aimed at strengthening democracy in Matra countries through twinning between Dutch political parties and their sister parties or organisations. The funds are provided through grants to foundations linked to Dutch political parties represented in Parliament.¹⁵

The objective of this grant programme is strengthening the leadership and networks of the Dutch recipient parties' sister parties or organisations in the target countries. The MPPP was evaluated in 2006 by Warner Strategy & Fundraising.¹⁶

¹⁴ The rules for embassies using Matra delegated funds can be found (in Dutch) at <http://portal.rp.rijksweb.nl/irj/portal/?NavigationTarget=HLPFS://cisrijksportaal/cisfacilitair/cishandboek/bedrijfsvoeringbz/cishbbznederlands/cisbeleidsplanninguitvoering/cisoverigefinancieringsprogrammas/cismatrakap>.

¹⁶ 'Evaluatie Matra Politieke Partijen Programma 2000-2005: Van partij naar partij: Nederlandse ondersteuning van politieke partijen in Europese landen in transitie' [Evaluation of Matra Political

As from 2013, responsibility for implementing this component has been transferred to the Ministry of the Interior and Kingdom Relations (BZK), thus placing the grant programme under the Political Parties (Financing) Act. The transfer was meant to streamline the process of awarding grants to the different political parties' foundations, and avoid the application of different statutory frameworks and thus of different management rules to different grants. By contrast with BZ's Matra grant framework, the Political Parties (Financing) Act does not impose any conditions on the countries where the funds are spent, so as to avoid any control over the party foundations by the Minister of the Interior. In a letter to the parties concerned, the Ministers of the Interior and of Foreign Affairs did however express their expectation that in practice the grants will be spent in the Matra countries.¹⁷ At the same time, the existence of sister parties in the countries concerned and their ability to cooperate on leadership development and network-building also play a role. MPPP implementation thus takes place in a specific political context.

In 2012 BZ awarded €1.2 million in MPPP grants. In the period 2013-2014 the eight parties with an institution for activities abroad were eligible for annual grants totalling €1 million.¹⁸ Amendments to the budget appropriated additional sums of €1 million in 2012, €750,000 in 2013 and €500,000 in 2014.¹⁹

2.3 Background and justification

This evaluation was announced in the explanatory memorandum on BZ's budget for 2014.²⁰ The Minister also mentioned the planned evaluation in his response to questions in parliament²¹ and to the amendment submitted by MPs Han ten Broeke and Michiel Servaes proposing an additional €2 million for Matra in 2014.²²

The current Matra programme has been under way since 2012 and is being funded for four years. In 2015 the minister will decide on the content of the programme from 2016. The ¹⁸ Under section 8 (3) of the Political Parties (Financing) Act.

¹⁹ In addition, there is an annual contribution of €500,000 for political parties in the Matra South countries. Because the Political Parties (Financing) Act sets no conditions for the place where funds may be spent, this additional sum is in practice difficult to distinguish from the Matra funds.

²⁰ 'The Matra programme will be evaluated in 2014.' (BZ budget, Annexe 3: grant overview, Matra CoPROL)

²¹ 'In 2014 the Matra programme will be evaluated.' (Response to questions 14 and 15 on the 2014 budget)

²² 'Now with regard to the amendments: the amendment to item 19 submitted by MPs Ten Broeke and Servaes concerns Matra. I agree with the thinking behind the amendment. The additional €2 million they propose would create scope to carry on useful projects in pre-accession and Eastern Partnership countries. I will work with my staff at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to ensure that part of the additional resources can be spent on the programme for political parties. Next year Matra will be evaluated, so it's a good idea to examine the future use of Matra funds at that time. I therefore see this amendment as an expression of support for current policy.'

timetable of this evaluation is therefore aimed at making the final report available no later than March 2015, so that the results of the evaluation can be taken into account in the minister's decisions.

In the first quarter of 2015 the final report will also be issued of the IOB's evaluation of Dutch policy on the democratic transition in the Arab region. That report will lay the basis for decision-making on the future of Matra South.²³ These synchronised timetables will facilitate better coordination of decision-making on the two different programmes.

2.4 Goal

The evaluation has a dual goal. On the one hand, it will allow the minister to account to Parliament for the Matra programme as it has been implemented. On the other hand, it should make it possible to draw lessons that can be taken into account in possible future decisions on Matra.

3. Evaluation questions

The evaluation will focus on the following questions:

1. Relevance

- a. Was the Matra programme's focus on the development of democracy and the rule of law justified in view of the challenges that the countries in question are facing as they move closer to the EU?
- b. Is the programme consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the field of strengthening the rule of law?
- c. Do the Matra projects focus on major challenges these countries face with regard to the rule of law?
- d. What was Matra's added value in relation to other Dutch programmes and programmes of other donors, notably EU programmes like the IPA, which are being implemented in the countries in question?

2. Effectiveness:

Has the Matra programme contributed to:

²³ The part of the IOB evaluation of the Dutch role in the EU Neighbourhood Policy that deals with Matra programmes in Eastern Partnership countries will also be made available at that same time. This will play a role in the decision on structurally extending the Matra programme to the Eastern Partnership countries from 2016.

- a. candidate countries' meeting the Copenhagen criteria and adopting the EU's values and standards in the area of the rule of law;
- b. strengthening the Netherlands' bilateral relations with the target countries;
- c. (with regard to PATROL and the courses for diplomats) the target countries' working more closely with one another?

3. Management:

Were the Matra programme components organised in a way that fostered an effective process of selecting and implementing projects (including financial and substantive monitoring)?

These central evaluation questions will be answered making use of the following questions for each programme component.

Matra CoPROL

Relevance

- Have the projects focused on the main issues in the area of the rule of law that are important in the accession processes of the countries where they have been implemented?
- Were the projects consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the field of strengthening the rule of law?
- Did different donors coordinate/harmonise their efforts? To what extent did CoPROL projects complement the projects of other donors? In particular, did the projects play a role as pilot projects for EU projects on a larger scale?

Effectiveness

- Have the projects increased the capacity of the target countries' partner institutions to meet the Copenhagen criteria and to adopt the EU's values and standards in the area of the rule of law?
- Are the projects expected to strengthen the relationships between the target countries and the Netherlands?
- Are the projects expected to strengthen the relationships between the government institutions involved?

Management

- Were the Dutch government bodies concerned well enough equipped for / geared to cooperation with their partners in the target countries? If they were not, why not?
- Did the selection and assessment procedures lead to a sufficient number of applications and approved projects of the desired quality?

Matra PATROL and Matra courses for diplomats

Relevance

- Did the PATROL courses address the aspects of strengthening the rule of law that are most relevant to the target countries' accession?
- Did the courses for diplomats address the aspects of the accession process that are most relevant to the target group?
- Were the training programmes consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the field of strengthening the rule of law?

Effectiveness

- Have the courses organised so far increased the participants' knowledge and understanding of core European values and standards?
- Have graduates of the PATROL and Clingendael courses helped implement relevant reforms in their countries of origin?
- Do the graduates have more knowledge and understanding after the courses of the Netherlands' 'strict but fair' policy on EU enlargement?
- Have the graduates built networks with one another, and are they using those networks? Are the networks broader than the graduates alone? To what extent are the networks used to help countries adopt core European values and standards?
- Are the graduates still in touch with the Netherlands/the Dutch embassy? To what extent is the Dutch government, in The Hague and in the target countries, using the networks and encouraging their use by others?

Management

- Are these two programme components being properly managed?

Matra delegated projects

Relevance

- Did the embassies' projects focus on major problems related to the rule of law that affect the accession of the countries where the projects are being implemented?
- Were the projects consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the area of strengthening the rule of law?
- Has there been any overlap or inconsistency between the objectives or results of the embassies' Matra projects and those of projects financed from other Dutch funds?
- Did different donors coordinate/harmonise their efforts? To what extent did Matra projects complement the projects of the European Commission and other donors?

Effectiveness

- Have the projects strengthened the rule of law in the countries where they were implemented?
- Have the projects strengthened bilateral relations between the target countries and the Netherlands?

Management

- Do the embassies have sufficient capacity for the financial and substantive management and monitoring of the projects?

Matra Political Parties Programme

Relevance

- In what countries were the annual Matra grants spent in 2012? Has this changed since 1 January 2013?
- Did the objectives of this programme component correspond to the problems of the target countries' political parties that are most relevant to accession?

Effectiveness

- Have the parties' foundations' Matra projects helped with leadership development and network-building by sister parties or organisations in Matra countries? Has this changed since 1 January 2013?
- Has it been ensured since MPPP's transfer to BZK that its implementation will continue to be consistent with BZ policy?

Management

- Did BZK have adequate instruments to assess the MPPP projects in advance, to monitor them and to increase where necessary the effectiveness of this programme component?

4. Parameters and scope

4.1 Timeframe and geographical scope

The evaluation will focus on the Matra programme in the form it has taken since its last revision. This means that the evaluation will cover the timeframe from 2012 to 2014 and all seven countries on the current Matra list. In view of the major changes made in Matra's political context and thematic focus in 2012, it makes no sense to address the pre-2012 period in the evaluation. Three points should be made in this connection:

- Country visits will be made only to three countries – Albania, Serbia and Turkey – which give a representative picture of Matra implementation (and in particular of CoPROL and of delegated projects implemented on the ground in pre-accession countries).²⁴ These three countries have been chosen for a combination of substantive and practical reasons.
 - o Substantively, there is a wide disparity in the progress made towards accession. Turkey has been a candidate country for a long time (since December 1999) and has been negotiating on accession since October 2005. While its process has been under way for a considerable time, however, there is no momentum in the talks. While the country has doubtless made progress in recent years, recent developments have posed threats to fundamental principles of the rule of law and thus give cause for concern. EU membership for Turkey can only be a long-term prospect. Serbia became a candidate country in March 2012 and EU accession talks with the country were formally opened in January 2014. As with Montenegro, the new method will be applied to Serbia in which the negotiations on the chapters on the rule of law are opened early in the process and will be the last to be closed. Serbia is now in the first phase of this process. Albania only obtained the status of candidate country in June 2014. It is in a much earlier stage of the process and is still far from being ready for negotiations.

²⁴ Input from other embassies will be taken into account in the evaluation by means of questionnaires and phone interviews.

- o Practically, the implementation of CoPROL can easily be investigated in Albania as the country is involved in all three of the projects from the first round of the tender procedure.²⁵ Turkey and Serbia have also been chosen for case studies because the Dutch embassies in Ankara and Belgrade receive substantial shares of Matra delegated funds and are taking part in a CoPROL project with Albania.²⁶ The evaluators can relatively easily combine a visit to Serbia with one to Montenegro, where a CoPROL project and other Matra activities are under way.
- Matra in Eastern Partnership countries falls outside the scope of this evaluation, but is included in the IOB evaluation of the Dutch role in European Neighbourhood Policy. The IOB results will be available in time to be taken into account in decision-making on the future of the Matra programme. As noted above on page 3, Matra funds are delegated each year to embassies in Eastern Partnership countries and to the Visegrad Fund for use in the Visegrad 4 Eastern Partnership Program (V4EaP). Decision-making about Matra's future will address the question of the extent to which Matra funds should continue to be spent in the Eastern Partnership countries, even though these countries have no accession prospects.
- In conducting this evaluation it will be useful to take note of relevant lessons drawn by earlier evaluations, including in any event the MPPP evaluation mentioned earlier.

As a consequence of the brief timeframe covered in the evaluation, it will not be possible to arrive at a definitive conclusion about the results achieved for every programme component. This applies in particular to the CoPROL programme, as initial progress reports have been received for only half of the CoPROL projects. In these cases the evaluation will place a greater emphasis on the relevance of Matra interventions and on the quality of Matra procedures.

4.2 Substance

The evaluation will examine all the Matra programme components in Turkey and the Western Balkans: CoPROL, PATROL, the courses for diplomats, the delegated projects and MPPP. It will focus more on the components for which more funds have been budgeted (see Annexe 1 for the amounts).

²⁵ 'Improvement of Prison Conditions for Reintegration of Juvenile Detainees in Albania, Macedonia and Kosovo', 'Leadership Programme for Security and the Rule of Law', and 'Promoting a Victim-Centred Approach in Trafficking Cases in Albania and Bosnia and Herzegovina'.

²⁶ 'Leadership Programme for Security and the Rule of Law'.

5. Methodology and approach

The evaluation will take the form of a qualitative analysis of the relevance of the activities under the current Matra programme and of the effect of these activities on outcomes. Several aspects of Matra management will also be evaluated. Annexe 1 contains the evaluation matrix.

Data will be gathered for the evaluation by means of desk study, phone and live interviews, questionnaires and country visits. The embassies involved in country visits will be asked to facilitate the conduct of the evaluation on the spot (by finding interview rooms, making appointments, etc.).

The desk study will focus on:

- surveying the Matra countries' accession problems and their progress in strengthening the rule of law, mainly on the basis of the European Commission's annual progress reports and reports by international NGOs;
- policy documents concerning the Matra programme and its components;
- the project dossiers of the selected projects.

Interviews, questionnaires and country visits will make it possible to obtain information from policymakers, implementing organisations, grant recipients, participants in courses and other concerned parties in both the Netherlands and the target countries. Annexe 2 contains an indicative list of stakeholders for each programme component.

The evaluator will determine which research tools will be used for each programme component on the basis of the evaluation questions for that component. The candidates for the task of conducting the evaluation will outline their approach to each component in detail in their proposals. The proposals should focus on the following points:

Matra CoPROL

The main sources for this component are memorandums and the initial progress reports on the three projects approved in the first round of the tender procedure. The first reports from projects selected in the second round are only expected in early 2015, so the evaluation will not assess these projects' results and effects but only aspects of their relevance (ex-ante). Documentation for projects that were not selected is also relevant to this component.

Matra PATROL and courses for diplomats

As these programmes go through several cycles each year, their effects can be assessed. The country visits will provide opportunities for contact with people who have taken the courses. Former participants in countries that are not being visited can be approached through phone interviews or questionnaires.

Matra delegated projects

The large number of projects in this component will require making a selection. In doing so:

- at least two projects should be selected in each Matra country;
- preference should be given to projects that have already been completed (or according to the timetable should have been completed);
- the feasibility of on-the-spot investigation and possible project visits should be a factor;
- the embassies should be asked for advice.

For this component as well, country visits will provide opportunities to gather information through project visits and contacts with those implementing the projects. Interviews and questionnaires will make it possible to extend the investigation to countries that are not being visited, in the interests of obtaining a representative picture.

The transition to electronic archives makes it easier to coordinate with the embassies beforehand which files will be available on the spot and which ones in The Hague.

MPPP

A complete survey of the projects carried out since 2012 is needed to answer the first question for this component. The questions on effectiveness can be answered using a representative sample of the foundations' projects. The country visits will provide opportunities to interview representatives of parties in these countries that have taken part.

6. Organisation

The director of the Europe Department (DEU) will be responsible for the conduct of the evaluation. Bas Limonard of IOB will play an advisory role to ensure its quality.

The evaluation of Matra in the pre-accession countries is not part of IOB's programme of work. To ensure the independence and quality of the evaluation, its conduct will be outsourced to third parties (consultants). DEU will seek three quotations, on the basis of which it will select the implementing organisation.

DEU will form a peer group to provide substantive guidance, to be made up of the following people:

- Johan Verboom (chair) – DEU
- Bas Limonard – IOB
- Jan Rinzema – DEU
- Onny Jalink – DEU
- Reinier Fleurke – BZK
- Else Riep/Ruud Lek – Ministry of Security and Justice
- André Krouwel – VU University, Amsterdam

The peer group will meet twice: once to discuss the draft Terms of Reference and once to discuss the draft report.

7. Products

The product of the evaluation will be a report, which the Minister of Foreign Affairs will send to the House of Representatives together with a response.

8. Timetable

The timetable of work is as follows:

- | | |
|---|----------------------------|
| - Adoption of ToR | mid-July 2014 |
| - Selection of implementing organisation | July-September 2014 |
| - Conduct of file study, interviews and fieldwork | September-November 2014 |

A. EVALUATION FRAMEWORK

Theme	Component	Questions	Means of Verification / Indicators	Sources
Overall Evaluation Questions		a. Was the Matra programme's focus on the development of democracy and the rule of law justified in view of the challenges that the countries in question are facing as they move closer to the EU ?	* listing/ ranking of main challenges for accession per country, according to EU reports (Which criteria/chapters show most reason for concern/ highest need for intervention?) * assessment of match between main challenges according to EU and thematic focus Matra (Judiciary & Law enforcement, Good Governance, Human/minority rights) * analysis of changes in top-5 priorities per country between 2011-2014 * coherence of Matra (and its separate programme elements) with main challenges/priorities per country	Matra programme document + Annual pre-accession progress reports + Representatives from Govt., civ. Soc., experts and international organisations/missions.
		b. Is the programme consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the field of strengthening the rule of law?	* Identification of RoL thematic focus areas according to Dutch policy * % of interventions/ share of budget allocated under Matra programme addressing one or more of thematic areas under Rule of Law. * % of interventions /allocated budget addressing other themes Other relevant themes	Relevant policy documents and RoL experts at MFA Desk study (records of interventions, project proposals and progress reports). + RoL expert of the MFA
		c. Do the Matra projects focus on major challenges these countries face with regard to the rule of law?	* ranking of main RoL challenges (i.e. in the fields of Judiciary & Law Enforcement, Good Governance, Human/ Minority Rights) per country in 2011, per country and per stakeholder group (govt., civ. soc., experts, int. orgs) * analysis of similarities and differences between countries and stakeholder groups (consensus?, why (not)?) % of MATRA interventions / budget allocations targeting top-3 RoL challenges in country at stake	Representatives of Govt., Civ.Soc., Experts, International orgs and missions. + Desk study (records of interventions, project proposals).
		d. What was Matra's added value in relation to other Dutch programmes and programmes of other donors, notably EU programmes like the IPA, which are being implemented in the countries in question?	* description of main donor programmes in support of a plural democracy, grounded in rule of law with room for govt. – civ.soc. dialogue per country (thematic focus, budget, location). * assessment of similarities, differences, complementarities and overlap with these programmes * description of coordination mechanism established / practiced to stimulate coherence and avoid overlap (per country) * comprehensiveness of coordination on RoL interventions between MoFA, other donors, local govt. and other local stakeholders (which stakeholders were consulted in the planning and project appraisal phases of Matra interventions?) * assessment of depth of coordination by participants (non-intervention/ exchange of information/ coordination/ cooperation/ synergy)	Desk study (website of main donors active in country) + Interviews local govt. + Desk study (using i.a. overview of goal coverage) + Desk study (programme and project documents of MATRA and other donors) + Appraisal guidelines and records appraisal meetings . + Embassy staff and representatives of implementing organisations. Representatives of other donors.
Relevance	CoPROL	a. Have the projects focused on the main issues in the area of the rule of law that are important in the accession processes of the countries where they have been implemented?	% of CoPROL projects/ budget targeting top-3 RoL challenges per country (main issue coverage)	* interviews with stakeholders * review of coordination evidence (memo's, minutes), if any
		b. Were the projects consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the field of strengthening the rule of law?	% of CoPROL projects/ budget classifiable as Judiciary & Law Enforcement, Good Governance, Human/ Minority Rights (thematic coverage)
		c. Did different donors coordinate/harmonise their efforts? To what extent did CoPROL projects complement the projects of other donors? In particular, did the projects play a role as pilot projects for EU projects on a larger scale?	* comprehensiveness of coordination effort (amount and type of stakeholders included) * intensity of coordination effort (non-intervention/ exchange of information/ co-ordination/ co-operation/ synergy) * stakeholders' assessment of the potential for copying or upscaling CoPROL ('pilot') projects * evidence of copying or upscaling of CoPROL projects
PATROL + courses for diplomats		a. Did the PATROL courses address the aspects of strengthening the rule of law that are most relevant to the target countries' accession?	% of PATROL projects/ budget targeting top-3 RoL challenges per country (main issue coverage)	* Review of PATROL project documents & evaluations * Review of Clingendael project documents & evaluations
		b. Did the courses for diplomats address the aspects of the accession process that are most relevant to the target group?	% of Clingendael courses/ budget targeting top-3 RoL challenges per country (main issue coverage)
		c. Were the training programmes consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the field of strengthening the rule of law?	% of training courses / budget dealing with subjects relevant to the themes: Judiciary & Law Enforcement, Good Governance, Human/ Minority Rights.
Delegated projects		a. Did the embassies' projects focus on major problems related to the rule of law that affect the accession of the countries where the projects are being implemented?	* % of delegated projects/ budget targeting top-3 RoL challenges per country (main issue coverage, based on quick-scan) * evaluators' assessment of fit between sampled projects and main challenges per country	* quick-scan of project summaries/ titles (all projects) * intensive study of sampled project files * interviews with stakeholders of sampled projects
		b. Were the projects consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the area of strengthening the rule of law?	* % of delegated projects/ budget classifiable as Judiciary & Law Enforcement, Good Governance, Human/ Minority Rights (thematic coverage, based on quick-scan) * evaluators' assessment of fit between sampled projects NL priorities (Judiciary & Law Enforcement, Good Governance, Human/ Minority Rights)
		c. Has there been any overlap or inconsistency between the objectives or results of the embassies' Matra projects and those of projects financed from other Dutch funds?	* coherence and overlap in themes addressed by Matra and other funds (e.g. Human Rights Fund) * extent to which embassies have secured coherence of own activities with activities of other funds in formal or informal processes
		d. Did different donors coordinate/harmonise their efforts? To what extent did Matra projects complement the projects of the European Commission and other donors?	* coherence ad overlap in themes addressed by Matra and other donors' activities on RoL (5 most important RoL donors per country) * extent to which embassies have secured coherence of own activities with activities of other donors in formal or informal processes
MPPP		a. In what countries were the annual Matra grants spent in 2012? Has this changed since 1 January 2013?	* development of spending per country (Matra countries and other) over 2012-2014	* MPPP annual reports * e-mail survey of Dutch political parties
		b. Did the objectives of this programme component correspond to the problems of the target countries' political parties that are most relevant to accession?	To be determined after more insight has been obtained concerning the interventions taking place under this programme component.

Theme	Component	Questions	Means of Verification / Indicators	Sources
Effectiveness	Overall Evaluation Questions	Has the Matra programme contributed to: a. candidate countries' meeting the Copenhagen criteria and adopting the EU's values and standards in the area of the rule of law;	Progress illustrated in EU Annual country progress reports (particularly in light of political criteria and most relevant chapters of AC) Reported and perceived contribution of MATRA programme (in particular delegated projects) to progress. 		b. strengthening the Netherlands' bilateral relations with the target countries;	Nr. of linkages established between Govt. institutions in target country and the Netherlands. Intensity and quality of contacts between institutes. Perceived quality of 'linkages' from both sides. Appreciation of the Netherlands as valuable partner in capacity development and democratisation processes Reported and perceived contribution of MATRA programme	Records MATRA programme management; interviews + Embassy interviews + Representatives of institutes in target country and the Netherlands + Representatives of Govt & Civ. Soc. involved in MATRA interventions. Records MATRA programme management; interviews + Embassy interviews + Representatives of institutes in target country and the Netherlands + Representatives of Govt & Civ. Soc. involved in MATRA interventions.
		c. (with regard to PATROL and the courses for diplomats) the target countries' working more closely with one another?	Nr. of networks / institutionalised contacts established as result of the programme. Nr. of participants able to demonstrate increased network in other MATRA countries. Follow-up initiatives to courses involving two or more MATRA countries. Reported and perceived contribution of MATRA programme	Participants of PATROL and diplomat courses. + Senior officials of executive branch and judiciary institutes targeted by the programme.
	CoPROL	a. Have the projects increased the capacity of the target countries' partner institutions to meet the Copenhagen criteria and to adopt the EU's values and standards in the area of the rule of law?	* stakeholders' assessment of CoPROL projects' potential to increase the necessary capacities * evaluators' assessment of effectiveness (comparison of realised to planned outputs)	* desk review of CoPROL documentation * interviews with CoPROL implementing organisations and partners
		b. Are the projects expected to strengthen the relationships between the target countries and the Netherlands ?	% of CoPROL projects that have explicit objectives / strategies for the creation / strengthening of bilateral relations and are reporting achievements in this area in monitoring reports. * stakeholders' assessment of CoPROL projects' potential to strengthen bilateral relationships * stakeholders' assessment of the quality of relations between their organisation and their CoPROL project partners (current relations as a predictor of future relations) * evaluators' assessment of the intensity of cooperation (within CoPROL projects) between Dutch and local government organisation (current cooperation as a predictor of future cooperation)
		c. Are the projects expected to strengthen the relationships between the government institutions involved?	* analysis of reported direct effects of the training	* Review of evaluation reports * Alumni survey * interviews with DEU and embassies
	PATROL + courses for diplomats	a. Have the courses organised so far increased the participants' knowledge and understanding of core European values and standards?	* analysis of reported direct effects of the training
		b. Have graduates of the PATROL and Clingendael courses helped implement relevant reforms in their countries of origin?	% of alumni able to report one or more examples of individual contributions to reforms that they (partly) attribute to course participation.
		c. Do the graduates have more knowledge and understanding after the courses of the Netherlands' 'strict but fair' policy on EU enlargement?	* analysis of reported direct effects of the training
		d. Have the graduates built networks with one another, and are they using those networks? Are the networks broader than the graduates alone? To what extent are the networks used to help countries adopt core European values and standards?	* % of alumni able to report one or more examples of cooperation with other alumni * % of alumni able to report extension of network beyond graduates * intensity of reported cooperation within alumni networks (non-intervention/ exchange of information/ coordination/ cooperation/ synergy) * alumni's assessment of the extent to which courses have helped countries to adopt European values and standards
		e. Are the graduates still in touch with the Netherlands/the Dutch embassy? To what extent is the Dutch government, in The Hague and in the target countries, using the networks and encouraging their use by others?	* % of alumni able to report recent contacts with the Netherlands government/EKN * intensity of reported cooperation between DEU/ EKN with alumni (non-intervention/ exchange of information/ coordination/ cooperation/ synergy)
	Delegated projects	a. Have the projects strengthened the rule of law in the countries where they were implemented?	* assesment of sampled projects on output and (if possible) outcome level	* intensive study of sampled project files * interviews with stakeholders of sampled projects
		b. Have the projects strengthened bilateral relations between the target countries and the Netherlands?	* stakeholders' assessment of sampled projects' contribution to change in relations
	MPPP	a. Have the parties' foundations' Matra projects helped with leadership development and network-building by sister parties or organisations in Matra countries? Has this changed since 1 January 2013?	* implementing parties' reports of examples of leadership development * % of MPPP budget spent in Matra countries (2012 - 2014)	* short survey of implementing (political) parties * MPPP evaluations * interviews with BZK and DEU
		b. Has it been ensured since MPPP's transfer to BZK that its implementation will continue to be consistent with BZ policy?	* stakeholders' opinion on safeguarding of Matra goals at BZK * evaluators' assessment of safeguarding of Matra goals in MPPP procedures at BZK

Management	Overall Evaluation Questions	Were the Matra programme components organised in a way that fostered an effective process of selecting and implementing projects (including financial and substantive monitoring)?	To what extent have the appraisal criteria (D, O and P-test) been systematically and consistently applied in the appraisal / selection of projects? To what extent did project plans turn out to be realistic (in time and financial terms)? To what extent did monitoring and remedial action take place according to plan? To what extent are implementing agencies able to provide objective and convincing information concerning progress, success and continued relevance of projects? How do the selection committee, embassy staff and organisations submitting proposals (both accepted and rejected) perceive the	Project proposals and records of project appraisal. + Project progress and monitoring reports. + Embassy staff and project managers. + Representatives selection committee, relevant embassy staff and entities submitting proposals. + Project Managers and embassy staff.
	CoPROL	a. Were the Dutch government bodies concerned well enough equipped for / geared to cooperation with their partners in the target countries (in particular submission and approval procedures)? If they were not, why not?	* subjective assessment by stakeholders (at DEU, EKN, MinJus, MinBZK Raad voor de Rechtspraak, Politie, DJI, IND, OM and implementing/ lead parties) of the capacity of own organisation and other stakeholders to conceive and implement relevant and effective CoPROL projects * ranking of most mentioned barriers to the design or implementation of CoPROL projects	* interviews with listed stakeholders
		b. Did the selection and assessment procedures lead to a sufficient number of applications and approved projects of the desired quality ?	* subjective assessment by those directly involved (at DEU and accepted and rejected implementing parties) of the quality of: the design, budgetting, planning, selection of implementing parties, (financial and substantial) monitoring (incl. follow-up in case of issues), and evaluation processes * subjective assessment of wider group of stakeholders (including RNEs, local govt. and NGOs) of the quality of approved projects * evaluators' assessment of quality of project setup (clear definition of project goals, clear translation of goals into implementation procedures, adequate monitoring and evaluation processes in place) * evaluators' assessment of the progress made (budget depletion vs. planning, output realisation vs. planning, timeliness of project reporting, response to issues arisen, etc.)	* interviews with listed stakeholders * desk review of formal project cycle documentation
	PATROL + courses for diplomats	Are these two programme components being properly managed?	* subjective assessment by those directly involved (at DEU and accepted implementing parties) of the quality of: the design, budgetting, planning, selection of implementing parties, (financial and substantial) monitoring (incl. follow-up in case of issues), and evaluation processes * evaluators' assessment of quality of project setup (clear definition of project goals, clear translation of goals into implementation procedures, adequate monitoring and evaluation processes in place). * evaluators' assessment of the progress made (budget depletion vs. planning, output realisation vs. planning - e.g. numbers of trainees, timeliness of project reporting, response to issues arisen, etc.)	* interviews with listed stakeholders
	Delegated projects	Do the embassies have sufficient capacity for the financial and substantive management and monitoring of the projects?	* subjective assessment by those directly involved (at DEU and RNEs and accepted implementing parties) of the quality of: the design, budgetting, planning, selection of implementing parties, (financial and substantial) monitoring (incl. follow-up in case of issues), and evaluation processes * evaluators' assessment of quality of project setup (clear definition of project goals, clear translation of goals into implementation procedures,	* interviews with listed stakeholders * desk review of formal project cycle documentation
	MPPP	Did BZK have adequate instruments to assess the MPPP projects in advance, to monitor them and to increase where necessary the effectiveness of this programme component?	* subjective assessment by those directly involved (at BZK and implementing political parties) of the quality of: the design, budgetting, planning, selection of implementing parties, (financial and substantial) monitoring (incl. follow-up in case of issues), and evaluation processes * evaluators' assessment of the instruments available to BZK for the ex ante assessment and for adequate monitoring and evaluation of projects	* interviews with listed stakeholders

B. SURVEY QUESTIONNAIRE

Introduction

Dear Alumni,

Thank you for participating in the evaluation of the Netherlands Ministry of Foreign Affairs PATROL training programme. The PATROL (Pre-Accession Training on Rule of Law) programme consists of trainings for civil servants and young diplomats by TMC Asser Institute/Ecorys/HALC and Clingendael Institute. It is part of the Netherlands' Matra social transformation programme.

In this survey you are requested to provide your answers and/or comments on plm. 15-20 questions. This will probably take around 5-10 minutes.

First, the survey briefly covers the success of the programme. Then, it addresses the follow-up activities (e.g. remaining contacts and networks, and involvement with change/reforms) of these training programme.

Your answers will remain anonymous, so please provide honest answers.

Kind regards,

René Vermeulen,
On behalf of MDF/APE evaluation team.

Alumni (ex- participants) contacts and network function

6. Have you kept contact with any of the participants after the training course has ended?

Yes

No

Contacts with ex-participants (alumni)

We understand 'personal contacts' as contacts with ex-participants that you have maintained outside of your work.

We understand 'network and cooperation' as contacts with other ex-participants that you have maintained that are (also) related to your work, so: 'professional'.

7. What type of contact have you maintained after the training has ended?

- I have stayed in personal contact with ex-participant(s) (outside of work)
- I have stayed in contact with ex-participant(s) both outside of work and work-related
- I have stayed in professional contact with ex-participants.
- I have joined a (formal) network of ex-participants
- Other (please specify)

Alumni Network and Cooperation

8. Does the network also include people that are not an ex-participant of the training?

- Yes
- No

If 'yes', please explain the background of the other people involved

Contacts with ex-participants (alumni)

9. Can you give a recent example of contact you had with other ex-participants of the training?

10. Are you actively in touch with other ex-participants of the training course?

- Yes, once per week
- Yes, once per month
- Yes, once per half year
- Yes, once per year
- No, I am not active

11. Please indicate the purpose of your contacts with other ex-participants.

- To keep in touch
- Sharing information
- Asking or offering support
- (Initiative for) cooperation
- Other purposes (please specify)

Involvement in EU accession or reform processes

15. After the training, have you been involved in implementing EU accession or reform processes?

Yes

No

How many? (in numbers)

Involvement in EU accession or reform processes

16. Can you give example(s) of reforms you have been involved in?

17. How much has the training you followed helped you to participate in this EU accession or other reform process?

Not at all

Somewhat

Reasonably

A lot

Please explain how you perceive this contribution

Background information of alumni

*18. Where are you from?

- Albania
- Bosnia i Herzegovina
- Croatia
- Kosovo
- FYRO Macedonia
- Montenegro
- Serbia
- Turkey

19. What is your gender?

- Female
- Male

20. At what institute/organisation were you working at the time of the training course?

21. What was your function at the time of the training course?

D. JUDGEMENT CRITERIA

Overall Evaluation Questions on Relevance
Questions	Means of Verification / Indicators	Sources	Judgement Scales
a. Was the Matra programme's focus on the development of democracy and the rule of law justified in view of the challenges that the countries in question are facing as they move closer to the EU ?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> * listing/ ranking of main challenges for accession per country, according to EU reports (Which criteria/chapters show most reason for concern/ highest need for intervention?) * assessment of match between main challenges according to EU and thematic focus Matra (Judiciary & Law enforcement, Good Governance, Human/minority rights) * analysis of changes in top-5 priorities per country between 2011-2014 * coherence of Matra (and its separate programme elements) with main challenges/priorities per country 	Matra programme document + Annual pre-accession progress reports + Representatives from Govt., civ. Soc., experts and international organisations/missions.	Good	RoL remains key challenge in EU Accession and thematic focus of Matra programme (as a whole and in its separate programme components) is in line with these challenges
			Sufficient	RoL is one of more challenges in EU Accession and /or Matra programme (as a whole and in its parts) focus is largely on key RoL challenges
			Moderate	RoL is not among key challenges for EU accession and / or Matra's thematic focus partly focus on key RoL challenges.
			Poor	RoL is not one of the key challenges and /or Matra's thematic focus in not on any of the key RoL challenges.
b. Is the programme consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the field of strengthening the rule of law?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> * Identification of RoL thematic focus areas according to Dutch policy * % of interventions/ share of budget allocated under Matra programme addressing one or more of thematic areas under Rule of Law. * % of interventions /allocated budget addressing other themes * Other relevant themes 	Relevant policy documents and RoL experts at MFA Desk study (records of interventions, project proposals and progress reports). + RoL expert of the MFA	Good	Vast majority of Matra interventions (in budget and nr. >80%) is in line with Dutch RoL policy priorities.
			Sufficient	Majority of Matra interventions (in budget and nr >60%) is in line with Dutch RoL policy priorities.
			Moderate	Only about half of the Matra interventions (in budget between 40 – 60%) is in line with Dutch RoL priorities
			Poor	A minority of Matra interventions (in budget and nr <40%) is in line with Dutch RoL priorities.

Overall Evaluation Questions on Relevance
Questions	Means of Verification / Indicators	Sources	Judgement Scales
c. Do the Matra projects focus on major challenges these countries face with regard to the rule of law?	* ranking of main RoL challenges (i.e. in the fields of Judiciary & Law Enforcement, Good Governance, Human/ Minority Rights) per country in 2011, per country and per stakeholder group (govt., civ. soc., experts, int. orgs) * analysis of similarities and differences between countries and stakeholder groups (consensus?, why (not)?)	Representatives of Govt., Civ.Soc., Experts, International orgs and missions. + Desk study (records of interventions, project proposals).	Good	Interventions under all programme component in majority focus on main RoL challenges in the target countries representing at least 75% of Matra budget
	% of MATRA interventions / budget allocations targeting top-3 RoL challenges in country at stake		Sufficient	Interventions in at least 3 programme components in majority focus on major RoL challenges in the target countries, representing at least 60% of the Matra budget
d. What was Matra's added value in relation to other Dutch programmes and programmes of other donors, notably EU programmes like the IPA, which are being implemented in the countries in question?	* description of main donor programmes in support of a plural democracy, grounded in rule of law with room for govt. – civ.soc. dialogue per country (thematic focus, budget, location).	Desk study (website of main donors active in country) + Interviews local govt. + Desk study (using i.a. overview of goal coverage) + Desk study (programme and project documents of MATRA and other donors) + Appraisal guidelines and records appraisal meetings . + Embassy staff and representatives of implementing organisations. Representatives of other donors.	Moderate	Interventions in only 2 programme components in majority focus on major RoL key challenges, representing at least 50 % of Matra budget.
	* assessment of similarities, differences, complementarities and overlap with these programmes		Poor	Interventions in less than 2 programme components focus on major RoL challenges representing less than 50% of the budget.
	* description of coordination mechanism established / practiced to stimulate coherence and avoid overlap (per country)		Good	Matra has a unique added value, deliberately seeking complementarity and coordination with other RoL relevant programmes or funds to avoid overlap and gaps in coverage of key issues.
	* comprehensiveness of coordination on RoL interventions between MoFA, other donors, local govt. and other local stakeholders (which stakeholders were consulted in the planning and project appraisal phases of Matra interventions?)		Sufficient	Matra has a distinct added value from other RoL relevant programmes or funds, despite limited deliberate harmonisation and coordination efforts.
* assessment of depth of coordination by participants (non-intervention/ exchange of information/ coordination/ cooperation/ synergy)			Moderate	Matra interventions partly overlap with other RoL relevant programmes or funds, harmonisation / coordination efforts are limited / ad-hoc, some key-issues in RoL situation are ignored.
			Poor	Matra interventions largely overlap with, or could have been funded by, other RoL relevant programmes or funds. No systematic harmonisation / coordination efforts taking place.

Evaluation Questions on Relevance CoPROL
Questions	Means of Verification / Indicators	Sources	Judgement Scales
a. Have the projects focused on the main issues in the area of the rule of law that are important in the accession processes of the countries where they have been implemented?	% of CoPROL projects/ budget targeting top-3 RoL challenges per country (main issue coverage)	* interviews with stakeholders * review of coordination evidence (memo's, minutes), if any	Good	More than 80% of COPROL projects focus on a top-3 RoL priority in the respective target countries.
			Sufficient	More than 60% of COPROL projects focus on a top-3 RoL priority in the respective target countries.
			Moderate	More than 40% of COPROL projects focus on a top-3 RoL priority in the respective target countries.
			Poor	Less than 40% of COPROL projects focus on a top-3 RoL priority in the respective target countries.
b. Were the projects consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the field of strengthening the rule of law?	% of CoPROL projects/ budget classifiable as Judiciary & Law Enforcement, Good Governance, Human/ Minority Rights (thematic coverage)		Good	More than 80% classifiable under the thematic priority areas of COPROL
			Sufficient	More than 60% classifiable under the thematic priority areas of COPROL
			Moderate	More than 40% classifiable under the thematic priority areas of COPROL
			Poor	Less than 40% classifiable under the thematic priority areas of COPROL
c. Did different donors coordinate/harmonise their efforts? To what extent did CoPROL projects complement the projects of other donors? In particular, did the projects play a role as pilot projects for EU projects on a larger scale?	* comprehensiveness of coordination effort (amount and type of stakeholders included) * intensity of coordination effort (non-intervention/ exchange of information/ co-ordination/ co-operation/ synergy) * stakeholders' assessment of the potential for copying or upscaling CoPROL ('pilot') projects * evidence of copying or upscaling of CoPROL projects		Good	Project documents and monitoring reports provide evidence that CoPROL projects are designed, appraised and implemented in consultation with other prominent donors in the target countries. Key staff involved is able to confirm the existence of active donor coordination through concrete examples.
			Sufficient	Project documents and monitoring reports provide evidence that CoPROL projects are designed, appraised and implemented explicitly considering efforts of other prominent donors in the target countries.
			Moderate	Key staff can confirm coordination efforts and cite examples of coordination / harmonisation, but this is not documented.
			Poor	No deliberate coordination / harmonisation efforts can be cited, while documental proof of such efforts can't be found either.

b. Did the courses for diplomats address the aspects of the accession process that are most relevant to the target group?	% of Clingendael courses/ budget explicitly most relevant aspects of EU accession for the target group? % of participants confirming that their course addressed the most relevant aspects of the accession process		Good	More than 80% of Clingendael courses deliberately assess and address most relevant accession issues, confirmed by at least 80% of survey respondents.
			Sufficient	More than 50% of Clingendael courses deliberately assess and address most relevant accession issues, confirmed by at least 60% of survey respondents.
			Moderate	Less than 50% of Clingendael courses deliberately assess and address most relevant accession issues, though at least 60 % of survey respondents confirm relevance of the course.
			Poor	Less than 50% of Clingendael courses deliberately assess and address most relevant accession issues for participants and this confirmed by less than 60% of survey respondents confirming relevance of course.
c. Were the training programmes consistent with the Netherlands' policy priorities in the field of strengthening the rule of law?	% of training courses / budget dealing with subjects relevant to the themes: Judiciary & Law Enforcement, Good Governance, Human/ Minority Rights.		Good	More than 80% of courses classifiable under the thematic RoL priority areas as defined in Dutch policy
			Sufficient	More than 60% courses classifiable under the thematic RoL priority areas as defined in Dutch policy

Clear evidence of effectiveness at output level can be found.
			Sufficient	Reasonable progress reported, without evidence of a clear Matra contribution. Clear evidence at output level among the majority of selected interventions can be found.
			Moderate	Moderate progress without evidence of a clear Matra contribution. Evidence of effectiveness at output level for selected projects is moderate (50 / 50)
			Poor	No progress or regress, without evidence of a clear Matra contribution. Little or no evidence of effectiveness at output level can be found.

Good	Majority of CoPROL and Delegated projects have resulted in linkages between Govt Institutes or between Recipient NGO and embassy that go and last beyond the limited scope of the project (period)
			Sufficient	About half of the CoPROL and selected Delegated projects have resulted in lasting relations beyond the scope and duration of the project.
			Moderate	Minority of the CoPROL and selected Delegated projects have resulted in lasting relations beyond the scope and duration of the project.
			Poor	No evidence can be found about improved and lasting bilateral relations that go beyond scope and duration of project.

¹ It is understood that this question can only be answered through contribution analysis, which in turn can only be applied sensibly if there is a sufficiently strong and coherent thematic focus of interventions within a specific target country. If not, then effectiveness at output level will have to be regarded instead.

c. (with regard to PATROL and the courses for diplomats) the target countries' working more closely with one another?	Nr. of networks / institutionalised contacts established as result of the programme.	Participants of PATROL and diplomat courses. + Senior officials of executive branch and judiciary institutes targeted by the programme. Overall: Were the Matra programme components organised in a way that fostered an effective process of selecting and implementing projects (including financial and substantive monitoring)?	To what extent have the appraisal criteria (D, O and P-test) been systematically and consistently applied in the appraisal / selection of projects?	Project proposals and records of project appraisal. + Project progress and monitoring reports. + Embassy staff and project managers. + Representatives selection committee, relevant embassy staff and entities submitting proposals. + Project Managers and embassy staff.	Good	Appraisal criteria have been systematically and consistently applied as part of an effective and efficient selection process. Project implementation and monitoring largely takes place according to plan, while timely and accurate information is available about progress and success.
	To what extent did project plans turn out to be realistic (in time and financial terms)?		Sufficient	Appraisal criteria have been systematically and consistently applied though effectiveness and efficiency selection process is being questioned.. Project implementation and monitoring only partly takes place as planned , while information about progress (activities) is available but less about success (results)
	To what extent did monitoring and remedial action take place according to plan?		Moderate	Appraisal criteria have partially been applied in a selection process that is being questioned. Project implementation and monitoring only partly takes place according to plan while only limited information is available about progress and success.
	To what extent are implementing agencies able to provide objective and convincing information concerning progress, success and continued relevance of projects?		Poor	Appraisal criteria have not been systematically and consistently applied. Selection process perceived as ineffective and / or inefficient selection process. 			Poor Majority of stakeholders indicate need for fundamental improvements in training cycle management, with need for significant adaptation in most phases of the training cycle.

Evaluation Questions on Quality of Management Delegated Projects
Questions	Means of Verification / Indicators	Sources	Judgement Scales
Do the embassies have sufficient capacity for the financial and substantive management and monitoring of the projects?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> * subjective assessment by those directly involved (at DEU and RNEs and accepted implementing parties) of the quality of: the design, budgetting, planning, selection of implementing parties, (financial and substantial) monitoring (incl. follow-up in case of issues), and evaluation processes * evaluators' assessment of quality of project setup (clear definition of project goals, clear translation of goals into implementation procedures, adequate monitoring and evaluation processes in place). 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> * interviews with listed stakeholders * desk review of formal project cycle documentation 	Good	Both DEU and embassies in majority feel embassy demonstrate having the necessary capacity to effectively manage and monitor the development and implementation portfolio of delegated projects. This is demonstrated by a coherent and relevant portfolio of projects, designed with a clear intervention logic and feasible cost-conscious management and implementation arrangements.
			Sufficient	DEU and/or embassies in majority express minor reasoned doubts about the capacity at embassy to effectively manage and monitor the development and implementation portfolio of delegated projects. This doubts are substantiated by incidental shortcomings in a largely coherent and relevant portfolio of projects.
			Moderate	DEU and / or embassies in majority express reasoned concerns about the management capacity of embassies, substantiated by structural shortcomings in a largely coherent and relevant portfolio of projects.
			Poor	DEU and / or embassies in majority express serious reasoned concerns about the management capacity of embassy, substantiated by structural shortcomings in a fragmented project portfolio that is of little relevance.

Evaluation Questions on Quality of Management MPPP
Questions	Means of Verification / Indicators	Sources	Judgement Scales
MPPP: Did BZK have adequate instruments to assess the MPPP projects in advance, to monitor them and to increase where necessary the effectiveness of this programme component?	* subjective assessment by those directly involved (at BZK and implementing political parties) of the quality of: the design, budgetting, planning, selection of implementing parties, (financial and substantial) monitoring (incl. follow-up in case of issues), and evaluation processes * evaluators' assessment of the instruments available to BZK for the ex ante assessment and for adequate monitoring and evaluation of projects.	* interviews with listed stakeholders	Good	Stakeholders in majority describe BZK as having adequate skills and instruments to manage and monitor the development and implementation of a relevant and legitimate MPPP portfolio.
			Sufficient	Stakeholders in majority are satisfied with MPPP management by BZK, though clearly reporting on scope for improvement. Fitting management tools and skills are available though not used to their full benefit.
			Moderate	Stakeholders are moderately satisfied with MPPP management by BZK and reports significant scope for improvement. There is an apparent lack of fitting tools or skills being applied in MPPP management.
			Poor	Stakeholders in majority are dissatisfied with MPPP management BZK stressing the need for significant and fundamental improvements. There are substantial shortcomings in the available tools and skills for MPPP management.

49	I believe that has been the most important commitment	12/2/2014 10:26 AM
50	The problems we are facing in our country are measles, as people say, which was successfully cured by EU countries especially by Netherlands many decades ago. Experience of Netherlands in area of Integrity of civil servants and public safety, rule of law and decentralization was very useful to overcome the difficulties in detecting the problems in this areas and giving the right solutions to those problems. I have to point out in particular the experience in area of public safety because The Kingdom of Netherlands has huge results in this area which is applicable in my country. And still you are improving that method day by day which is remarkable. Very useful knowledge and good practice in public safety I gained in Netherlands regarding that topic.	12/2/2014 10:25 AM
51	Helpful.	12/2/2014 10:07 AM
52	50%	12/2/2014 9:55 AM
